Over the course of Fiscal 2025 (July 1, 2024 – June 30, 2025) NYPD spent $959.7 million on uniform overtime, of which, $280.5 million can be directly attributed to one of the city’s 78 precincts. The remaining $679.3 million of overtime spending, which can’t be attributed directly to a precinct, was for overtime in specialized squads, divisions, and patrol borough operations. The precinct with the most overtime spending during this period was the 75th precinct, spending approximately $6.9 million. The precinct with the least overtime spending during this period was the 116th precinct, which had approximately $1.2 million of uniform overtime.

*The 116th Precinct opened in late December 2024, so the data doesn’t account for a full year.
