INTRODUCTION

Schedule C designates funding for community based not-for-profit and other public service organizations. Expenditure of any funds for each organization identified in Schedule C is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a detailed initial review process, and upon the satisfactory completion of all applicable City procurement requirements at the time of contract award. The New York City Council and the Mayor's Office of Contract Services (MOCS) have established the following initial review for each organization:

For all organizations included in Schedule C, the City Council preliminarily reviewed the public purpose for which the funds would be used, any potential conflicts of interest, and the organizations' compliance with other applicable laws and regulations. After this preliminary review, the Council sent the entire list of organizations to the State Attorney General's Office for confirmation that charity registrations were up-to-date.

In the case of organizations requesting funding in excess of $10,000, MOCS is overseeing an additional prequalification review process. Through this process, MOCS is reviewing each organization to determine whether it meets integrity requirements, and compliance with applicable laws and regulations, including charities registration. In addition, MOCS sent the entire list of organizations to the State Attorney General's Office for confirmation that charity registrations were up-to-date. MOCS is also reviewing each organization to determine whether the organization is qualified to provide the proposed services, and is reviewing and recertifying the qualifications of organizations that were approved during Fiscal Year 2009.

For those organizations identified in Schedule C with an asterisk, either the MOCS or the Council's review process has not yet been completed, or the State Attorney General's Office has not yet provided the Council with final verification of the organization's charitable filing status.

For those organizations identified in Schedule C without an asterisk, the Council has completed its review process and, where applicable, MOCS has preliminarily reviewed or prequalified the organization.

Further restrictions to ensure the appropriate use of City funds will be incorporated through the City's procurement process.

							The TREE GUARDS 2009 Program will consist of designing, purchasing and installing tree guards in Hell's Kitchen to protect the frail trees newly planted by the Parks department as part of the Mayor's one million Tree program. NYC Parks Department planted 150 trees this and last season. Our mixed-use environment has not been kind to trees: delivery trucks routinely back up and break them repeatedly. The parks department had to replace damaged trees up to three times at the same location. Only those trees protected by heavy-duty tree guards survived. Tree guards are the only way to protect the city's investment in our neighborhood, and insure that the trees will mature and deliver a healthier environment. Our neighborhood has the third highest rate of asthma hospitalization in Manhattan and mature trees will make a large difference in the health of our community. The geographic area is Hell's Kitchen, from 34th Street to 43rd Street from 8th Avenue to 10th Avenue. This program will serve approximately 20,000 residents today. This population is rapidly growing with five residential buildings in construction on these blocks, all including affordable housing. The program will also serve the following populations: Commuters who travel on 9th Avenue to reach the Port Authority Bus Terminal, Javits Center visitors who use these street blocks to reach the subway; students of the Baryshnikov Dance center on 37th Street; visitors to the Hell's Kitchen Antique Fair which

Fiscal 2010 Adopted Expense Budget Adjustments Summary

							The Penny Harvest is the largest service learning program active in New York City, operating in more than 800 schools throughout the five boroughs including 5 schools in District 3 this year including PS111, NYC Lab School, NYC Museum School, Village Community School, and the Little Red School House. Through the program, children gather pennies, make grants and take action to help people and causes that matter to them. Annually, NYC children make hundreds of thousands of dollars in grants to protect the young and the elderly, support disaster relief and fight disease and defend the environment and human rights. As children progress through the program, they learn to be responsible citizens, philanthropists and community organizers and leaders. 1) Gathering Pennies: A school-wide, 4 week fall campaign to gather pennies to earn a $1,000 budget for student grant making. 2) Making Grants: Student leaders, usually 10-15 students across multiple grades, meet weekly for 16 weeks to represent their school in grant making. They research and discuss community issues with peers, and community members; identify, interview and visit potential grantees; and ultimately, make funding decisions. Students use research, problem solving, teamwork, leadership, and communication skills, and involve the entire student body in their research and decision making. The $1,000 budget is most often broken into several small grants and service projects (Taking Action). 3) Taking Action: Student leaders organize a volunteer project of their choice, often involving the entire school. Common Cents staff trains and supports teachers to link service projects with academic lessons, whether it be planting a garden, or planning a community health fair. We credit our success to the year-round curriculum, training, and support we provide to schools and our commitment to research and innovation. Common Cents trains an adult facilitator in each school (a Penny Harvest Coach) to work with a group of student leaders to run the year-long program. We provide over 9 hours of professional development to teachers, as well as on-going assistance via on-site and remote support in order to establish a permanent culture of caring, philanthropy and involvement. Our annually updated curriculum includes a step by step guide for teachers as well as supplemental lessons and web based content and tools. Lessons are provided across all subject areas and are linked to New York State learning standards and nationally recognized McCrel standards. We also provide penny harvesting tools for each student, "penny logistics", i.e. we transport the coins and turn them into cash for grant making, and grants administration to each school. The funds we are seeking partially fund the costs associated with producing and distributing the Penny Harvest Kits (curriculum) and training to participating schools.

							In FY 2010, Exit Art will present a full season of unique and groundbreaking visual art and multidisciplinary exhibitions that are open to the public at no cost. Our objective is to touch the lives of a diverse audience through vital programming initiatives that extend the dialogue of contemporary art to issues of pressing social concern. For over 25 years, we have worked to bring together different disciplines, communities and audiences to engage with the critical issues of our times. Since creating a destination point in a new, vibrant arts and cultural district in Hell's Kitchen in 2002, Exit Art has paved the way for other organizations (including the new offices for the Alliance of Resident Theaters, the Hell's Kitchen Neighborhood Association, Hosfelt Gallery, Affirmation Arts, Dieu Donne and 37 Arts), and grown into a nexus of art and culture for a new urban community in New York City. Over the past year we have brought this institution outside of its geographic location, reaching new audiences city-wide, nationally and internationally with Exit Art's dynamic media program, which has produced 13 half-hour documentaries in the last 18 months, presented on local cable TV and disseminated on the internet via podcasts, our website and social media sites like YouTube. Tracking public attendance at events, performances and exhibitions, Exit Art served 55,000 individuals in the 2008-2009 season. We anticipate serving a similar audience this season. Last year, our program expenses were approximately $750,000.

Quinn	Hell's Kitchen Neighborhood Association Inc	13-3860770	*	$5,000.00	DYCD	The TREE GUARDS 2009 Program will consist of designing, purchasing and installing tree guards in Hell's Kitchen to protect the frail trees newly planted by the Parks department as part of the Mayor's one million Tree program. NYC Parks Department planted 150 trees this and last season. Our mixed-use environment has not been kind to trees: delivery trucks routinely back up and break them repeatedly. The parks department had to replace damaged trees up to three times at the same location. Only those trees protected by heavy-duty tree guards survived. Tree guards are the only way to protect the city's investment in our neighborhood, and insure that the trees will mature and deliver a healthier environment. Our neighborhood has the third highest rate of asthma hospitalization in Manhattan and mature trees will make a large difference in the health of our community. The geographic area is Hell's Kitchen, from 34th Street to 43rd Street from 8th Avenue to 10th Avenue. This program will serve approximately 20,000 residents today. This population is rapidly growing with five residential buildings in construction on these blocks, all including affordable housing. The program will also serve the following populations: Commuters who travel on 9th Avenue to reach the Port Authority Bus Terminal, Javits Center visitors who use these street blocks to reach the subway; students of the Baryshnikov Dance center on 37th Street; visitors to the Hell's Kitchen Antique Fair which takes place every week-end on 39th Street. Tourists who will reside in the six hotels nearing construction on these blocks.

Quinn		Manhattan Class Company, Inc.	13-3391844	*	$4,500.00	DCA	The MCC Theater Youth Company is a free after-school program for New York City public high schools interested in acting and playwriting designed to help young people find and use their own unique voice through the collaborative creation of theater pieces. Weekly acting and playwriting labs, respectively led by a professional director and playwright, are held in CD3, as are the professional-quality productions of original student work that are produced with the support of other theater professionals. In addition to providing writing and performance opportunities for student members, Youth Company productions also serve as a first introduction to live theater for most of the YC's audience members. Youth Company members come to CD3 from all five boroughs of New York and from a diverse background. This year's nearly 70 member Youth Company was comprised as follows: 60% Latino; 30% African-American; 7% Caucasian; 2% Asian. The split between boys and girls was 50/50. Approximately 58% of program members are from low-income families, with 2 members this year from the foster care system. The Youth Company membership has grown by nearly 20% each year for the last two years. We expect to work with 70 students again next year, a combination of returning and new students. This year's Youth Company audience grew by approximately 40% over last year for a total of nearly 1,400 audience members. Much of this increase was due to additional student matinees. We expect the number of audience members we serve to remain stable or increase in 2009-10. In 2008-09, the Youth Company program budget was $127,460. For 2009-10, the budget will

							To support dissemination of the Alliance's Youth Study results and Youth Action Council's Photo Voice project on sexual violence to the public, community-based organizations and policy makers where the Alliance is based. The Council-funded quantitative study, "Partners and Peers: Sexual and Dating Violence Among NYC Youth" has been enhanced by the participatory action research project of the Council-funded Youth Action Council. Action Council members developed qualitative information through photography about how sexual and dating violence manifests itself in the youth population and provides a starting point for prevention efforts. Disseminating those results to youth, school and youth serving organization personnel in Council District 3 is key to ensuring that the research leads to changes in the way youth are treated if they identify that they have been sexually assaulted/abused to adults in their life and how to prevent sexual and dating violence in the youth population. The Alliance's home, in the Fontana Center for Child Protection, lends itself to such an exhibit because the first floor space is dedicated to a history of response to child abuse in NYC. Visitors will have the opportunity to view both exhibits.

Mendez		Outstanding Renewal Enterprises, Inc.	13-3320984	*	$3,500.00	DSNY	Free recycling program for electronics in New York City.
							Outstanding Renewal Enterprises, Inc. (ORE) is requesting funds for its electronic waste ('e-waste') recycling program to hold collection events in CD #3 and also to initiate a city-wide computer reuse program. In FY09, ORE held 16 collection events throughout NYC, with 3 of them in CD #3 and demand for the program is growing. ORE spent $40,000 on its computer recycling program in 2008. Residents of every age and race are served by the electronic waste ('e-waste') recycling program. ORE offers e-waste collection events in several neighborhoods. The events are accessible to all because they are free to residents and move to various parts of NYC. Additionally, the permanent drop-off site will serve residents by collecting more e-waste and making re-furbished computers available to low-income households. The populations served by the program will be primarily geographically based – the locations of collection events are determined by support from local legislators, businesses, and community organizations. The location of the drop-off site will be determined by space availability and other logistical considerations and, in large part, by support from local legislators.

							We reach into our community through our education program, which affects more than 6,000 students and 280 teachers throughout the public high school system in New York City (Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis High School, High School of Art and Design, Repertory High School, High School of Fashion Industries, Manhattan Bridges High School, and Harvey Milk High School). Whether through our school-wide partnerships or Page to Stage, our goal is to instill the skills and abilities in our students that will help them succeed throughout their lives. By integrating theatre into their classroom activities, they develop learning comprehension, creative thinking, problem-solving skills and teamwork. Our work with students recently expanded to include an after-school program called Voices—a program that brings together at-risk students from our partner schools to form a student theatre company. As a result, they write, stage and produce theatre which culminates in public performances in our Black Box Theatre.

							RMA Seniors Initiative, now in its second year, brings senior citizens to the museum for free admission, free guided thematic tours, and free films on the first Monday of every month. Additionally, seniors can participate in a weekly free art making program, Auspicious Stitches , where they learn how to do Himalayan-style embroidery and create a group project. In the first year, 2,367 seniors representing 1,458 groups citywide took advantage of RMA's Seniors Initiative. Interestingly, 908 individual seniors who could get to the museum on their own also attended Free Seniors Days and associated programming. With funds for senior transportation very limited, the majority of groups and individuals are from local neighborhoods that are within walking distance or a short train or bus ride from the museum. We seek stabilization funding to sustain the program at its current levels.

							Each year, Second Stage Theatre's Student Matinee Series enables 1,200 students to experience and learn from professionally produced Off-Broadway theatre. Second Stage has formed relationships with a number of junior and senior high schools throughout the five boroughs that consistently utilize this free service for their students. A majority of participants attend vocational schools, and this program affords them one of very few opportunities to step outside their concentration. In addition, many of the students' parents don't have the time, money, and/or inclination to take their children to theater so our matinee series gives them an educational experience they would otherwise not have. This program not only offers students the chance to see live theatre, it also facilitates a comprehensive discussion between students, their teachers, and our artists regarding the themes and issues that are pervasive in the piece. All participating classrooms receive a study guide, created and provided by Second Stage Theatre, to assist with this lesson. These study guides are prepared to help the students think critically about the show. Following each matinee there is a talk-back session with the cast and creative team that is coordinated by the artistic staff at Second Stage Theatre. This talk-back gives students the chance to ask questions and interact with the actors, playwrights and directors who helped bring the piece to fruition. This process makes the play relevant to the students' lives and puts a personal touch on the experience. The participants in the Student Matinee Series live throughout

							The VTS School-Wide Professional Development program is a 3-year training and curriculum implementation program for K-12 schools. Council Member support would underwrite the cost of the program in two District 3 elementary schools. We are currently in discussions with teachers and parents at PS 3 and PS 41 in District 3, where our organizational headquarters are also located. Additionally, the program is open to individual teachers, artists, and students in the area who are interested in learning an innovative teacher strategy to help students develop critical thinking, literacy and communication skills. VTS trainings will be open to all NYC schools and teachers, and take place across four boroughs throughout the 2009-2010 school year. With enough funding from the DCA and City Council we hope to extend discounted registration rates to individuals as well as schools. The sequenced, rigorous training events will take place in premier art museums, art galleries and directly in schools, where educators from across content areas will get to share and learn a powerful new pedagogy among a group of peers.

						Our monthly Performing and Literary Arts projects (January through June, September through December) present the works of our writers, poets, film makers, dancers and performing artists. We also present the works of other New York City artists. Our visual arts programs include Westbeth artists as well as artists from around the world. The visual Arts program runs throughout the year. These presentations highlight recent works or are retrospectives of our senior artists. In 08-09, we have had a two day music festival and an all day dance festival. We need money to advertise and promote these events throughout the Village and Chelsea districts. The W.A.R.C spent approximately $36,000 on arts activities last year, $6000 on the development of our website and $30,000 on the presentation of the works of artists from Westbeth, the neighboring community, and from around the world. All events are free to the public, and our audiences include people from the Village, Chelsea, and all over New York City. We estimate that we had 9,000 participants last year – five to six hundred a month to see the visual arts shows in the gallery and five hundred each for the Music Festival for two days in the fall, and the Dance Collective in the spring, and at least two hundred a month experiencing a poetry reading, a film, a drama reading, etc. in the community room. All events are free to the public.

					Funds will supplement the creation of a student researched, designed and recorded cell phone walking tour highlighting the architecture of Soho. 7th – 9th grade students in the CFA Foundation's summer program will explore the SoHo neighborhood, famous today as a center for art and fashion and home to many of NYC's beautiful 19th century cast-iron buildings. Students will uncover the stories these buildings and streets have to tell, and work together to create a cell phone guide to the neighborhood for the general public to enjoy any time of the year. The Soho tour will be created in conjunction with the Center for Architecture's "Architecture in Historic Districts" exhibition that will be on display this fall. "Architecture in Historic Districts" will examine the many facets of five of the City's historic landscape, including Soho. Hardcopy maps of the cell phone tour will be available at the Center for Architecture (within walking distance of Soho) and digital copies will be available on-line for downloading, giving exhibition visitors and the general public the opportunity to broaden their experience of Soho. This project will enable students to become teachers, sharing their new found knowledge with those interested in learning more about Soho. The tour will be free and accessible to anyone with a cell phone. Last year we piloted a student-created cell phone tour focusing on the immigrant history of Bleecker St. that was very well received. The cell-phone guide curriculum is one of CFAF's new initiatives that not only teaches students about architecture but informs the general public, making architecture and design of NYC more accessible for all. We hope that this new cell-phone tour will also be well received and pave the way for more to come. We expect an average of 25,000
